Eating the rainbow and staying hydrated

Healthy Eating

A balanced diet should be colourful. Fruits and vegetables are an important part of a healthy diet and make plates bright and full of colour. Fruit and vegetables are also a great source of vitamins, minerals and fibre.

See if you can eat a rainbow of fruit and vegetables during the week and challenge yourself to try fruit and vegetables of different colours. Here are some ideas to try:

COLOUR		FRUITS AND VEGETABLES
Red		Cherries, cranberries, radishes, red apples, red grapes, red peppers, tomatoes, watermelon.
Orange		Cantaloupe melon, mangoes, nectarines, orange peppers, pumpkin, sweet potatoes.
Yellow		Butternut squash, honeydew melon, lemons, papaya, peaches, persimmons, swede, yellow peppers.
Green		Apples, asparagus, avocados, celery, courgettes, cucumbers, green grapes, leeks, lettuce, limes, mange tout, sugar snap peas.
Blue/Purple		Aubergines, blackberries, blackcurrants, purple grapes, red cabbage.
White		Bananas, celeriac, garlic, Jerusalem artichokes, mushrooms, onions, turnips, white peaches.

Healthy hydration

Water and lower-fat milks are always the best choices for drinks for kids. Water contains no sugar and milk contains calcium for strong bodies as part of a balanced diet.

Some tips for healthy hydration:

- Make healthy swaps – Swap sugary drinks like fizzy drinks, energy drinks and juice drinks for lower-fat milks, water, sugar-free or no added-sugar drinks.
- Brighten up water - Make water an exciting alternative by adding a pop of colour. Add fruits like frozen berries, kiwi and apple to make the water taste and look interesting.
- Try a water app – Download a water tracker app on your phone and let your child mark off the glasses of water they drink.
- Fruit and Veg – You don't need to worry about the sugar in whole fruits and vegetables because this isn't added sugar. Plus they contain vitamins and minerals, are a great source of fibre, and count towards your 5 A Day.
- Juice and smoothies – Fruit and vegetable juice and smoothies are sugary. They still count towards your 5 A Day, but remember to limit the amount to no more than 150ml a day – and keep to mealtimes as they can cause tooth decay.

Knowing what is in the food we buy is an important step to making healthier choices. Understanding food labels can help us shop for food more wisely. Traffic light labels – red, amber and green – can be found on the front of food packaging. These show how much sugar, saturated fat and salt are inside what we’re buying. When it comes to reading food labels and the traffic light signs, a good rule of thumb is to go for more greens and ambers and cut down on reds.

Your food isn't rubbish and yet in the UK, households waste 6.5 million tonnes of it every year, 4.5 million of which is edible - that's enough to fill 38 million wheelie bins. Saving food means you will save money, families can save around £60 per month on reducing food waste. Reducing food waste is also good for the planet by reducing global warming!

Be a smarter shopper:

- Plan your meals - make it fun for the family
- Cook "one pot" meals - simple and good for using what you have left over
- Make a shopping list and stick to it.

Prepare your list in the layout of your supermarket - this will enable you to spend less time shopping and more time at home enjoying your food.

Around 3 million glasses of milk are chucked away in the UK each day. This means that, every year, 36,500 cows are producing milk that is going down the drain.

Every day, the equivalent of 20 million slices of bread are thrown away in UK homes. This could have fed breakfast to 10 million people. Did you know a year's worth of wasted bread slices, laid end-to-end, could circle the Earth from pole-to-pole 28 times!

Some easy ways of using leftovers:

Try something new: Take a look at the leftover recipes and how to become a food waste hero by visiting www.lovefoodhatewaste.com. Tip: type in two or three of your leftover foods in the search bar to find relevant recipes to make.

Food left over: why not pop them in a container or sealed bag, write the date and what the food is on a label and place it in your freezer. You can freeze most food, however, to be sure why not check out the A-Z Storage tool? And, remember to plan to eat the food at a later date.

me size meals

How to make sure kids eat the right sized portions for their age

Making the right sized meals for your family is important- everyone is different. Prepare the right amount, every mealtime - minimising food waste, saving money and at the same time keeping an eye on you and your family's health. The Everyday Portion Planner from Love Food, Hate Waste, helps remove the guesswork and will provide you with three options for children's portions:

- toddlers aged 1-2 years,
- children aged 4-11years and
- children aged 11-18 years.

Be physically active

Spread activity throughout the day

Aim for an average of at least 60 minutes per day across week

All activities should make you breathe faster & feel warmer

Activities to develop movement skills, and muscle and bone strength ACROSS WEEK

Get strong Move more

How much physical activity should children and young people aged 5-18 do to keep healthy?

Children and young people need to do 2 types of physical activity each week:

- aerobic exercise
- exercises to strengthen their muscles and bones

Children and young people aged 5-18 should:

- aim for an average of at least 60 minutes of moderate intensity physical activity a day across the week
- take part in a variety of types and intensities of physical activity across the week to develop movement skills, muscles, and bones
- reduce the time spent sitting or lying down and break up long periods of not moving with some activity

What counts as moderate activity?

- Moderate intensity activities will raise your heart rate, and make you breathe faster and feel warmer. One way to tell if you're working at a moderate intensity level is if you can still talk, but not sing.

- Basil can be great in spicy foods, is a good source of vitamins including calcium, magnesium, and omega 3
- Chives are a perfect partner for salads, liquid based foods and adds flavour to potatoes. Chives also contain vitamin A which helps with bone density.

Using your recycling to make a windowsill greenhouse

Step 1: Gather your materials:

- A container that you can put holes in (preferably flexible plastic)
- Potting Soil
- Seeds
- Scissors (please ask a responsible adult for help)
- Catch Tray (something larger than the container you are using)

Step 2: Prep your container:

- Using your scissors, cut holes into your container carefully (ask for an adults help). For a medium sized container 9-12 holes should be enough. This is to allow for drainage when watering your seeds

Step 3: Fill the container with soil:

- Fill the container $\frac{3}{4}$ of the way up with your soil. Leave a little room at the top of your container so that you have enough space when watering.
- Now water the soil, no seeds yet. The soil should be moist but not dripping.

Step 4: Planting your seeds

- With dry hands, pour several seeds into your hand and gently pick them up by pinching a few and sprinkling them across your soil evenly.
- Place the container on the tray and place it in a windowsill.
- Look for a window at home that has half-light and half-shade throughout the day. Too much direct sunlight can cook the seeds, so be sure to check it a few times during the first days to see if the window chosen is OK.
- Water gently if you notice the soil drying, use a small measuring cup or spray bottle. Don't flood, just moisten!
